UNIFORM FARE RATE WANTED FOR POINTS WITHIN CITY LIMITS

Citizens of Brighton, Allston and Faneuil Districts Urge the Railroad Commission to Equalize Tax.

PLEAD AT HEARING

Declare Different Charge Is Made for Places of Equal Distance From the South Terminal Station.

Citizens of Allston, Brighton and Fancuil were before the committee on railroads at the State House today in the interest of having a five-cent fare between all points within the city of Boston. Representative Martin Hays presented the petition to the committee. He stated that citizens of Boston were being discriminated against in the matter of fares by the steam railroads. Points of equal distance, he said, do not have equal advantages.

Allston, which is a little more than four miles distance from the South station on the Boston & Albany pays eight euil, a little over five miles distance, pays 12 cents. Dorchester, Neponset, Roslindale and Milton, which are of about equal distance from the South station, pay 5 cents fare on the New York New Haven & Hartford railroad.

This condition, he said, worked to great disadvantage to the people of his district.

Among the parties appearing were representatives of the various improvement associations of these districts. F. A. B. Stanwood of the Faneuil Improvement Association and Thomas F. J. Callahan of the Allston Improvement Society spoke strongly in favor of the bill. Other

It was argued that the arbitrary fixing of the limit at 25 years was not a representing the railroads said that when a person had reached the age of 25 years he should be able to pay regular fares as being beyond the student age.

Melville O. Adams for the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad said that as to his company, with a 10-cent fare from Lynn and a 5-cent fare from other places, it should not be asked to cut this rate in half. Attorney Russell of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. said that his company gave a half rate to all persons under 18 years of age, so that it should not be asked to go further in this respect.

WASHINGTON-The unsuccessful ef fort of Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas to cause the erasure from the records of his statement before the House committee on public lands that he expected to these officers: Exalted ruler, Edward get "a good big fee if I can recover the price of that timber," is the chief topic of conversation among congressmen to

> That the incident cannot be well ignored by the Senate is admitted by even Mr. Davis' closest friends, and an official investigation will in all probability result. Section 1781 of the Revised Statutes makes it a misdemeanor for a member of Congress after his election to accept or agree to accept any money or other valuable consideration for services in any cause in which the government is a party.

In a public statement issued today Senator Davis says that if the bill should become a law, "it would not affect his fee or employment with the St. Frances levee board against these timber depredations."

Senator Davis appeared before the House public lands committee recently in advocacy of a land bill. After see ing this statement in the proofs of the report of the hearing the senator revised his remarks by eliminating this portion of his statement. He asked the committee to strike it out of the record, and when the committee refused Wednesday the matter became public.

It is conceded that in charity Mr. Rockefeller has but one leader-Andrew Carnegie-and the best opinion is that Mr. Rockefeller has given away something like $130,000,000, as against perhaps $160,000,000 for Mr. Carnegie.

WASHINGTON-One of the most interesting topics today in the capital is the proposed plan of John D. Rockefeller, Standard Oil magnate and richest man in America, for distributing his surplu wealth for the good of others.

Mr. Rockefeller's decision in this regard came as a surprise late Wednesday afternoon, when Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire introduced a bill to incorporate the Rockefeller foundation in the District of Columbia, and the document was referred to the committee on Judiciary. The object of the Rockefeller foundation is to provide for a body to initiate and carry on philanthropic work along all lines everywhere.

PLAYHOUSE NEWS HERE AND ELSEWHERE

LONDON DRAMATIC LETTER. Mr. and Mrs. Kendal. (Special to The Monitor.)

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal have announced their intention of leaving the stage, and their decision is said to be final. Last appearances are fortunately often postponed, as in the case of the Bancrofts. So it may be hoped that should Mrs. Kendal receive sufficient inducement in the way of a part that she can make peculiarly her own, she may again be seen by a public that will always be glad to welcome her back.

As Andrea del Sarto was described as "the perfect painter," so may Mrs. Kendal be termed the "perfect actress." Her Ort seems never at fault; whatever she says or does the spectator feels that she has discovered the one way to say or do it. She has learned the trick of acting until nothing is left to say of the quality of her art, except that this quality has its own defect. Mrs. Kendal is essentially a comedienne, but, as she proved in "Diplomacy" and again in her brother's famous comedy "Caste," she has great emotional gifts.

With characteristic good sense she has thoroughly understood the extent of her own powers, and, with perhaps only one exception, has never gone outside As Mistress Ford in "The Merry Wives every one of them." them. No one has carned their leisure so well as Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, yet, and perhaps the wish is father to the thought, star with Mrs. Potter in a series of their work as the most "perfect" comedienne of modern times.

KYRLE BELLEW'S CAREER.

Kyrle Bellew, who comes to the Colonial theater next Monday evening in Sutro's "The Builder of Bridges," has had revival of "The Lady of Lyons" and long experience in prominent parts of im-portant plays. He made his first New York appearance several years after he had established himself as a London fav. orite in the early '80's. His New York debut was made at Wallack's, Oct. 26, 1885, as Hubert in a play called "In His same first American engagement, he was seen as Captain Absolute in "The poetic and imaginative qualities of the Rivals," and with John Gilbert as the text by overloading their productions Sir Anthony, and with Mr. Gilbert he with garishly elaborate scenery. The folfirst American production of "Hoodman Merchant of Venice" at Munich was Blind." With Lester Wallack, still during this first engagement, Mr. Bellew appeared in "Valerie," and with Creston the Nineteenth Century: Clarke, Herbert Kelsey and Katharine Rogers in Henry Hamilton's "Harvest," any impression of the canals and "calles" "Sophia," and the first production of of Venice. In' the first place, they do not want the candidate against Taft to come from Ohio. Secondly, they do not want that candidate to be a man who will combine the support of the Bryan and of the old Cleveland democracy. Thirdly, they would be glad to have the Democrats go farther east for their man. The Republicans would like to have the great cen tral West to themselves, with Mr. Taft as the candidate, and they believe that if Governor Harmon is not the nominee of the Democratic party, that nominee will be taken from some state east of

It is therefore of Mr. Harmon that the Republicans are most afraid at this particular time. The talk that he is being quietly boomed by Wall street and by the Eastern monied men generally, they say is interesting but not convincing. Mr. Harmon has solid ground of his own on which to stand as a candidate, regardless of Wall street. The great financial in terests of the country, it is the Republican belief, would pretty well divide be tween Messrs. Harmon and Taft. Some of the more radical of the financiers would be expected to stand for Mr. Harmon while the conservatives among them, those who realize the pressing need for a satisfactory and prompt settlement of the great problems of government oversight, would be expected to stand for President Toft, who it is believed will not personally alienate the financial interests, no matter how his progressive policies may displease them.

The large gains in gross this year have been somewhat offset in the past two months by the higher expectation. months by the higher expenses incurred and also by the more liberal charges for maintenance.

In both gross and net earnings the current year will be easily the best in the history of the company. Gross should approximate $42,000,000, while net should be in excess of $12,000,000. After deducting taxes and fixed charges, the balance available for dividends on this estimate would be about $3,000,000, and a surplus for the common stock of 10 per cent as compared with 7.7 per cent last year.

While 10 per cent is the largest surplus earned on the Boston & Maine stock in recent years old records of the company show that at one time more than this had been paid in dividends. The Boston & Maine has the longest unbroken record of any railroad in the country with regular cash payments, dating back to 1842. The largest dividend ever paid was 15 per cent, in 1870, and the next largest one was 12 per cent during the civil war. For seven years immediately following the war, the company paid an average of 10 per cent a year. No dividend of more than 7 per cent has been paid since 1892, but no dividend of less than 6 per cent has been paid since 1894. It is this excellent dividend record which causes the stock to sell some 20 to 30 points above the average 6 per cent railroad stock. The long dividend record is also an excellent argument in favor of the proposition to make the Boston Holding Company's bonds a legal investment for savings banks as the security behind the bonds is the Boston

Reclamation Bonds

Secured by a Thousand Farms

The trend of investment among our thousands of customers is toward Reclamation bonds. With us, these bonds are now outselling all other bonds combiged.

They are secured by first liens on good farm land—sometimes a thousand farms. And this land reclaimed by drainage or irrigation is the most fertile farm land in America.

America.

The bonded indebtedness is conservative, rarely exceeding one-fourth the land's value. And, the bonds being serial, this indebtedness is rapidly reduced.

As additional security, we have a first mortgage on all the property of a corporation in which the investment is sometimes twice the bond issue. Thus we combine corporate responsibility with farm lien security.

Some of the bonds are "Carey Act" bonds,

Some of the bonds are "Carey Act" bonds, where the State supervises the project. Some are municipal securities, issued by organized districts. Such bonds form a tax lien on the district.

For all of these reasons, rightly selected icclamation bonds have come into great

SHIPPING NEWS

The largest number of second cabin? sengers ever brought to Boston on one steamer will be due to arrive here next 17, via Newport News, where she was Thursday morning with the Cunarder towed in by the derelict destroyer Sen-Ivernia, Capt. Thomas Potter. The liner eca, after being abandoned at sea, with is bringing 411 of this class of passengers. lumber for A T Stearns Lumber Com-She also has 35 saloon passengers and 1018 steerage. The steamer left Liverpool Tuesday and took her departure from Queenstown at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Delay in loading the Leyland line steamship Canadian will prevent her sailing for Liverpool until 3 p. m. Friday. She was scheduled to leave Wednesday. The steamer will carry 35,000 bushels of wheat, 42,000 bushels of corn, 2000 bales 6f cotton, 400 tons of provisions, 250 tons of flour, 3000 barrels of apples, 100 tons of hay, 750 head of cattle, one horse and a large amount of general merchan-

Completing the longest passage in her career, the big Hamburg-Amerika line steamship Badenia, Capt. Gustav Schmidt, three weeks out from Ham-burg, came slowly up the barbor late burg, came slowly up the harbor late Wednesday afternoon and went to the company's terminal at Mystic dock. The Badenia left Hamburg Feb. 10 with nearly 900 tons of freight.

Ordinarily she would have reached here a week ago, but for two days she was able to log only a mile an hour and her passage was prolonged to such an extent that when she reached here the supply of coal was nearly exhausted.

The heavy steering chain gave way and the steamer for a time was unmanage able. Chief Engineer Mengdehl, with picked men from the engine room force, repaired the break.

About 5000 tons of the Badenia's cargo will be unloaded here, and she will proceed to Baltimore with the remainder.

Among the Bostonians who will sail from New York on March 5 aboard the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria will be S. C. Ochs of the Russian Importing Company. As has been his custom for several years past, Mr. Ochs will spend several months in Russia and Siberia collecting peasant handicraft for shipment to this country later in the year.

Bringing 59 cabin and 83 steerage passengers, the Allan liner Pretorian, Captain Pitts, from Glasgow and Moville, is due here tomorrow. The steamer reached Halifax Tuesday night where she landed a large number of passengers.

White Star liner Cretic, Capt. J. B. Kelk, from Naples and Genoa for here, left Ponta Delgada, Azores, at 7 p. m. Tuesday, where she took on 383 additional steerage passengers. The liner is at all the stations. due here March 7.

Sailing on the United Fruit Company's steamship Esparta, Captain Glenn, for the tropics today were a number of tourists, many of whom will visit the Panama canal and make an extended tour through Central America. The Bostonians on board were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ryan, n. S. Pruyn, W. G. Stater, R. S. Lewis and Edwin Q. Cummings. The Esparta was filled with provisions, steel and case goods.

The United Fruit Company's new steamship, Zacapa, Capt. Asa Davison, which sailed from New York today for Kingston, Colon and Santa Marta, carried a large number of saloon passengers. Among the tourists were the Rev A. D. Malley, Jay H. Hart, Miss Hannah Munroe, Mr. and Mrs Flemming H. Revell, Albert E. Rogers and A. Stewart Rogers of Boston. Captain Davison, the commander of the new liner, was formerly in the steamer Admiral Dewey in the service between this port and Ja-

A scarcity of fish gave T wharf prices a big boost this morning. Only three vessels were on hand to open the market, bringing a total fare of only 13,500

The arrivals were all shore boats. One of them, the Nettie, had nothing but 2000 pounds of cod. The Metacomet was high liner with 5500 pounds of haddock and 1200 pounds of hake, while the Julietta had a little of each of the staple groundfish, her fare being 2000 pounds of haddock, 1300 pounds of cod, 300 pounds of hake, and 600 pounds each of cusk and pollock.

T wharf dealers' prices today ruled high, some haddeck coming by rail from Gloucester selling at $7.25 per hundred weight. Other prices: Haddock $6.25; large cod $5.25; small cod $4; large hake $5.75; small hake $3.75; cusk $3.50; pol-

MILLS EXPECT MORE BUSINESS

Steel Interests Preparing for Big Production During the Prices for Pig Iron Quoted. almonds.

The iron and steel mills are preparing for a substantial increase in the volume of business during the spring and summer months. There is every indication that business will be on a tory of the industry. The Iron Age bbls, onions 2089 bu.

It cannot be said that the large steel interests are now booking more new usiness than was being taken a fort night ago, but they see more in prospig iron, for the most part by large consumers, and the business has been of the sort that brings prices to new low

In foundry iron one important buyer has taken about 9000 tons for eastern plants, and is still in the market for 6000 tons. Radiator concerns have been in the market for about 15,000 tons, of which a small part was closed. A cast iron pipe company has bought about 20,000 tons of southern iron, but this is really the renewal of a sliding scale contract, the deliveries extending over six months. An electrical company in the middle West is inquiring for 15,000 tons for 5.90, stockers and feeders $3.60@6.25, Cleveland and Pittsburg district delivery. Other inquiries are being made for foundry iron for the second quarter and the second half. However, the general run of buyers are not convinced by the argument of higher ore prices for 1910, and are disposed to walt for indications which they do not find yet, that the point of greatest weakness has been ents $6@6.20, straights $5.70@6, clears

The sales of the past week have rought down prices of northern foundry $4.20@5.55. iron about 50 cents a ton, while Virginia No. 2 iron is now sold at $15 at furnace, water, Weehawken, and Scranton for and Alabama warrant iron at $13 for early delivery. While some southern furnaces are holding at $14 and higher prices iron for delivery in the second half, others will sell at $13.50 for delivery in the remainder of the year.

There is little probability that the Steel corporation will require additional Bessemer pig iron, though less than 91 per cent of its blast furnace capacity is normally high, due to a combination of favorable circumstances. In the past week three of the corporation's stacks were ordered out for repairs.

Rail orders include 10,000 tons of Bessemer rails for an Alaska copper district railroad, and 10,000 tons of open-hearth rails was booked for eastern shipment.

The structural trade continues to show good aggregate of relatively small orwill require 7000 tons, and the C. H. &. D. has placed 3500 tons of bridge work.

The Schools and Paternalism

An interesting development of paternalism in New York is seen in the proposal to feed the undernourished children of the city schools at the school luncheons whether they can pay for it or not. A sees in this a serious infringing on the duty of parents. It was, no doubt, considered such when the state undertook the education of the children, who had been logically enough taught at the parents' expense before. In some states even text-books are provided by the schools, and this is a debatable good, some folk say, since it leaves nothing whatever for parents to do toward their children's education. Moreover, it is argued that for many homes the school books were the only ones ever owned therein and that to require the purchase of these worked good in the end to the whole family circle.

The Naval Program and Peace

THE proposition that an amount of money be set aside in the army and navy appropriation bills annually for the purpose of devising, developing and promoting means in furtherance of permanent international peace is reasonable and rational. A nation that is spending nearly $400,000,000 a year to meet expenses incident to preparations for future wars and the cost entailed by those that are past should be able and willing to do something in a large way for a cause that will give fair promise of eliminating the necessity for this enormous expenditure.

Admitting the circumstances to be such at present that this nation is constrained to follow the example of others in this particular, it still remains true that we should follow this example reluctantly, and mainly with the purpose of eventually moving in quite a different direction. It has been well said that if the United States of America, enjoying as it does the advantage of position, resource and influence, does not strive for world peace, then the hope of gaining it is small

The remonstrance against an increase in the navy, signed by 500 ministers of Boston and vicinity, and just forwarded to Congress, is couched in terms more moderate than usual in such protests, and it will, we believe, receive a relatively greater share of attention. It will have the good effect, too, of fixing the attention of the country once more upon the great and growing military establishment which we, a peace-loving people, are supporting.

But it does not get down to the root of the matter. It is folly to expect this government to reverse its naval policy in the face of world-wide armament. We must be ready to maintain a position in order that we may be useful in the preservation of the peace. But the preservation of the peace should be a great aim and the inculcation and encouragement of better means of preserving it a greatest ambition.

THE more war scares the more battleships for our people to build. Perhaps when the Japanese read Representative Tawney's assertions that it is business tactics rather than military that are being pursued over here they will feel less apprehensive. With our time and money employed in building warships it will naturally follow that we shall have neither the men nor money to engage in much real sea campaigning.

IT WOULD seem as if the President had won the leaders in House and Senate over to his side, and yet it appears that at the White House conference, which resulted in an agreement on the part of the majority managers in Congress to permit certain of the administration measures to go through, an important condition was imposed upon the chief magistrate. This, in effect, is that he must openly assume responsibility for the measures and for the course the House and Senate "insurgents" will pursue with relation to them.

In view of the decision reached, it is only reasonable to assume that the President is perfectly willing to abide by every legitimate consequence of a more aggressive legislative policy. The President, his administration, and the Republican majority can better afford to lose in a well-fought battle in behalf of the platform promises of the party than to submit tamely to an imaginary or even a real opposition. It is fairly certain that the "insurgent" minority and the country at large will have greater respect, if not greater affection, for a program that is pressed forward with ability and vigor than for a program which is carried out half-heartedly, or abandoned by

Studying Spanish

CONSUL McGOOGAN of Progreso, Mex., in a recent report on the advisability of encouraging the study of Spanish, makes some highly interesting points. In the first place, the language alone is not sufficient; tariff laws, customs regulations and general commercial usages should be mastered; and above all the young people fitting themselves for a business career should be given an opportunity to come in contact with Latin America, its inhabitants and conditions. The consul advocates the founding of Latin-American colleges in the great centers of the United States where students from the republics to the south speaking Spanish and Portuguese would meet the young Americans preparing to enter relations with Central and South America. And as the Latins would come north, the Americans would go south in order to finish their studies in some great Latin center like Mexico City, Havana, Lima, Valparaiso, Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro.

Aside from the intellectual advantages of an exchange of ideas between Latins and Anglo-Saxons in the proposed Spanish-American colleges, followed by a sojourn in Latin America of the American graduates, a great social and political value attaches to the proposal. It is, indeed, the quickest, and probably the only, way to dispel mutual prejudices and establish a basis for cooperation in all fields of activity. There are unfortunately signs that instead of coming closer together, the people of the United States and those of the republics to the south are drifting apart. Growing commercial intercourse alone would not necessarily change this, but a growing acquaintanceship can and will reverse the process. At present, the number of Americans residing in Latin republics, except Mexico, is diminutive—a circumstance which the Latins find as hard to reconcile with the Monroe doctrine as the relative insignificance of American business interests in Latin America south of Panama.

It is time that a large portion of the interest bestowed by Americans on Europe and European culture be diverted to Latin America. The notion that the completion of the Panama canal will, of itself, turn over to the United States a vast amount of South American business is a fallacy, for unless the ground is thoroughly prepared beforehand all the commercial benefit will accrue to England, continental Europe and even Japan. Further, the political rise of the larger republics is such that the Monroe doctrine in its present form will be found obsolete, requiring a new form based no longer on protection but on cooperation between the north and the south. With that in view every effort must be made to promote in the rising generation contact and exchange of Latin and Saxon speech.

A PROPOSED naval appropriation bill asking for $128,000,000 makes it appear as if the nation is preparing to add to its floating indebtedness.

The · Art of Spelling

IT HAS been many a day since the incident that the poet Whittier-who some say was one of the "parties of the first part"-so tenderly recorded in his poem, "In School-Days." These verses relate how a schoolgirl, who had spelled the word her schoolboy classmate had missed and who had gone above him in the class, sought to apologize, on the way home from school, for her display of superior learning. She said to him:

"I'm sorry that I spelt the word; I hate to go above you, Because"-the brown eyes lower fell-"Because, you see, I love you!"

Perhaps it can be truthfully said that but a very small percentage of the boys and girls who are today attending the public schools take their spelling so much to heart. On the contrary, the impression appears to be growing that the pupils of today do not spell as well as pupils did a number of years ago.

This condition is attributed to several causes, such as newer and less effective methods of teaching, less importance placed upon correct spelling as an accomplishment, and consequently less time and attention devoted to it. No doubt the last named cause is the reason for such deterioration in spelling as may have come about. It is true that a goodly number of educators insist that pupils spell as well today as they ever did, while others believe to the contrary and are taking steps to right the matter. A few days ago it was announced that in order that the pupils of the public schools of York county, Pennsylvania, may become more efficient in orthography, the country superintendent has planned to conduct spelling bees throughout the county during the next scholastic year. He has prepared a list of 5000 practical words which will be used in these spelling contests. A while ago, Professor Bailey of Yale University published the results of a statistical analysis of the spelling of his students, in which he courageously set forth the fact that only about one out of seven Yale. students is an accurate speller. Of 171 essays examined by Professor. Bailey, all written by seniors or by juniors, 146 contained orthographic errors.

No doubt slipshop spelling has been condoned in our schools to a degree that should not longer obtain. With better methods employed and with the public spelling bee for correction of those who are careless in their orthography, better things may well be expected.

From the present stage of his journey until he is quietly settled down at home the African lion hunter will, himself, become the object of "lion" hunters everywhere. It will no doubt prove an interesting transition in surroundings from savagery to civilization.

Congress

Economy

THE action taken by the House committee on military affairs with reference to the West Point cadet measure is referred to as indicating the indisposition of Congress to practise economy. The bill in question has been passed by the Senate. It increases the number of cadets in the military academy. The war department, with the approval of the President, favored the proposed reform in methods of army appointment on the ground that the present system of calling men from the ranks and from civil life increases the expense of maintaining the military establishment. It was held that it is necessary to educate men so appointed precisely as if they had been cadets, but it was pointed out that during the educational period they draw the pay of lieutenants instead of cadets. The argument used against the bill was the simple one that to increase the number of cadets would diminish proportionately the number of appointments from the ranks and from civil life, these being made almost invariably at the recommendation of members of Congress.

This instance was hardly necessary in order to prove that Congress is in sympathy with neither the President nor the people in the matter of bringing about a more economical administration of public affairs. From present appearances the appropriations of this session, despite all that has been said and promised on this score, will exhibit no signs of a sincere attachment on the part of either House or Senate for a policy of retrenchment. The "large and generous" idea is still cherished, and even sharp words from Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee fall upon inattentive ears.

Yet, if they only knew it, congressmen seeking reelection next fall will find that this continued tendency toward extravagance and the continued disregard of opportunities for economizing will be among the serious matters that they will be called upon to explain.

Welcome for Good Immigrants  THE generous gift of Lord Mount Stephen. of $300,000 for the purpose of fostering desirable British immigration to Canada is in line with the policy that the Dominion has been actively pursuing for some years past. It wants workers to till its vast western territory, and an immense settlement is taking place because of the liberal terms offered and because of the energy exerted in putting them before the people of the mother country. The newcomers do not remain in the seaboard cities, but are induced to keep on to the open farming lands of the interior, where they at once become producers, self-sustaining and adding to the wealth of the country.

The United States presents something of a contrast to this in the constant cry for further restrictions on immigration. We certainly must protect ourselves against undesirables; we do not want those to come here who are rejected or prohibited by our northern neighbor. Yet our doors should remain open to those who come seeking freedom, greater opportunities for themselves and their families, who will not be a burden or a drawback to us.

An interesting decision has just been rendered by Judge Irving G. Vann of Syracuse, N. Y., which is in effect that one may change his name, Christian or surname, or both, without resort to legal proceedings, provided he do so "in good faith and for an honest purpose." The judge says in his opinion that "although the custom is widespread and universal for all males to bear the names of their parents, there is

The Right to Change One's Name nothing in the law prohibiting a man from taking another name if he chooses. There is no penalty or punishment for so doing." In support of his decision, Judge Vann cites a similar one by Chief Justice Abbott of England.

The Syracuse judge quotes numerous precedents, many of them outside of law records. We are informed that Voltaire, Moliere, Dante, Petrarch, Richelieu, Loyola, Erasmus and Linnaeus are assumed names; that Melanchthon, before he achieved literary fame, was a Schwartzerde, which means black earth, and that Rembrandt's father had the surname Gerretz, but the son changed his to Van Ryn on, account of its supposed greater dignity. Napoleon Bonaparte changed his name after his amazing victories. The Duke of Wellington was not by blood a Wellesley but a Colley, and the assumed name of Wesley was afterward expanded to Wellesley. Camden mentions a man with eight sons, each with a different surname and not one with that of his father.

General Grant's baptismal name was Hiram Ulysses, and he bore that appellation until he was appointed a cadet at West Point, when his name got mixed with that of his brother. He was appointed as "Ulysses Sidney Grant," and was afterward known as U. S. Grant. President Cleveland had the baptismal name of Stephen Grover Cleveland. He omitted the Stephen and assumed the name of Grover Cleveland.

Judge Vann maintains that if a man transacts business under his new name, holds himself out to his friends and acquaintances thereunder with their acquiescence and recognition, the new name becomes his legal name just as effectively as if he had hired a lawyer and applied to the court.

Just when society has become somewhat reconciled to the men who, with a considerable degree of success, are seeking to "own the earth," come others who appear to have something like a mortgage on the air.

Birds' Paradise Invaded

Away off to the northwest of the Hawaiian Islands, about an equal distance from the shores of Asia and America, is a small group of islands and cliffs on which live hundreds of thousands of birds. Prominent among these bits of isolated land in the vast Pacific is the island of Laysan, which heretofore might have been termed a bird paradise. The number of feathered creatures that yearly go there at the nesting season is said to exceed imagination. They include albatross, white and brown, petrels, and frigates, which divide into colonies. Years of undisturbed seclusion gave them a fancied security. But the invader came in the person of the enterprising Japanese. An immense number of birds are now sacrificed annually, it is charged, merely to get the wings. Laysan is within the Hawaiian Islands bird reservation, and the Japanese have no rights there. There is no evidence of any marketing of the spoils in Honolulu; it is charged that they are handled direct from Japan and sold by Osaka merchants in London, Paris and New York.

The wings of the island birds, of course, go into the hands of milliners, who use them for trimming ladies' hats. For the commercial demand for birds' wings continues about as active as ever. Women do not seem inclined to do without them as adornments. Some progress toward reform in this respect has been made by the Audubon societies, but the effect of their efforts has not been very marked. If the women really desire to stop the slaughter of the birds, they can do so by refusing to wear the feathers as ornaments. It will avail little to punish the poachers. Destroy the demand and the supply will soon be stopped.

PREMIER ASQUITH in announcing his plan of procedure says that government business must have precedence at every sitting of Parliament up to the adjournment of March 24, and that after the Easter recess the work of restricting the power of the House of Lords will be begun. Does the premier mean by this that he is acting on the 'old maxim: "Business before pleasure"?

THERE is no danger whatever that there will be any clash between modern methods of private travel, or between their devotees. The automobile has made a secure place for itself. No increase in the popularity of the motor boat will affect it. Nor will the coming into general use of the aeroplane in the next few years cause either of them to decline in popular favor. Each will claim its own partizans, for the inclinations and tastes that one appeals to will be different from those invoked by Popularity of the Motor Boat For the present it is only necessary to say that the motor boat is attracting to the water in numbers that are growing annually people who have always had a desire to float, but who for various reasons were never before able to float to their satisfaction. The introduction' of the motor boat has solved many problems for them. It has made it unnecessary that they shall row or employ rowers. It levels the too often insurmountable difficulties presented by the steam yach. It removes the objections raised against the sailboat. It is within reach of the man on salary. It can be built to meet the purse of the millionaire. In inducing greater numbers of people to get into the open and under the azure sky, and away from the noise and bustle of the towns and cities, even for brief intervals, the motor boat is doing good.

It is generally believed that the postponement of the American machinery exposition in Berlin for a year will prove to be of advantage to all concerned. What is lost in time is likely to be more than made up by having everything running more smoothly.

STEWARDS on the ocean steamships are complaining that with the increase of ocean travel rates the passengers are disposed to economize in other ways. Evidently the stewards find the "tips" smaller than they used to be.
